Our medical director

Robert A. Marshall, MD, MPH, ABPM, CMRO, NRCME
Medical Director of Occupational Health, Board Certified Occupational Medicine

"It is my role and duty to promote a healthy and safe workplace, and to keep workers on the job in a safe environment through customizing services based on the unique needs of each employee, and the individual needs of each company; in an effort to assist each individual to maintain or reach their maximum level of function, through the use of effective, high-quality, yet cost-effective health care.

"This philosophy embraces treatment and care after an injury has occurred, but, much more importantly, helps the employee and company avoid the mishap in the first place. This is done through appropriate workplace consulting and working with each company's safety professionals and employee stakeholders. The core of occupational medicine is preventive medicine."

Dr. Marshall received his medical degree at Ohio State University, Columbus, and served his residency at Toledo Hospital/W.W. Knight Family Practice, Toledo, OH. He also earned his Master of Public Health (MPH) at Ohio State University School of Public Health, Columbus.
